Comment: Make your name the largest font on the page, not too big, but enough to stand out. Its up to you whether or not you want to include your address, most people leave it off.

Comment: If you haven't performed in an opera yet, its no big deal. Most singers of your age will have no prior opera experience. In this section, chorus should be listed as chorus. In this section, its ok to list childhood performances.

Edwards, Matthew C. 8/19/11 10:20 PM

Comment: Hopefully you've had at least one musical theatre experience if you are considering a career on the stage. List chorus as ensemble. In general keep it to your high school years.

Comment: Non-Musical acting experience counts as well. In general keep it to your high school years.

Comment: This section can help make up for a lack of solo performance experience. Don't go overboard, but use it to let them know you are interested in classical music.

Edwards, Matthew C. 8/19/11 10:22 PM

Comment: This is your chance to let them know what you've done to prepare for college. If you are lacking any of these areas, its not a big deal, but go ahead and take the category off the list.

Edwards, Matthew C. 8/20/11 9:39 AM

Comment: Teacher hopping can scare people. If you have had more than three teachers, only list the three you've spent the most time with. If you studied with them for less than a year, don't list them. If they were a voice teacher at a camp, list them under the camp.

Edwards, Matthew C. 8/20/11 9:42 AM

Comment: Only if you feel confident in the language. Especially list if Russian, French, German, or Italian. Spanish and other languages not as important. List "Fluent" if bi-lingual.

Comment: If you've gone to performing arts summer camps or workshops, list them here. If not, its not a big deal, go ahead and eliminate this category.
